Sub 51 Sinks on East River Rock

SOUTH END JEWELER HELD UP AND SLAIN

STRIKES REEF AFTER SAFE TRIP THROUGH HELL GATE DANGERS

New York, July 7 (I.N.S.).—The ill-fated submarine S51, in tow to the Brooklyn Navy Yard from where she sank off Block Island last September, sank a second time shortly after 10 o'clock this morning when she hit a rock known as Ferry Reef in the East River off Thirty-fourth street, Manhattan.

As the submarine crashed into the rock, the steamer Falcon, cornring along behind collided with the pontoons supporting the submersible and the S51 settled beneath the water.

Navy officials declared the boat could be raised and immediately started the work of dragging her off the rock.

The submarine has been safely towed through the treacherous waters of Hell Gate, where it had been feared there might be trouble.

The end of her voyage was only a short distance away when the accident occurred.

A fleet of tugs sent by the Brooklyn Navy Yard was soon on the scene.

Officials said that if it did not prove feasible to drag off the S51,

'EXILED' FROM HUB TO JAIL 2 YEARS

SCORN HER "GO STRAIGHT" PLEA

Florence Sennott, convicted of receiving merchandise shoplifted in Hub stores, was "exiled" in jail in Pittsfield for two years so as to get her as far from Boston as possible.

ARMED THUG SLAYS SO. END JEWELER AND ESCAPES IN CHASE

In one of the boldest of daylight holdups, an armed thug shot and killed Alec Rosneau, jeweler, in his shop at No. 408 Massachusetts avenue, South End, today, scooped up a handful of rings and fled.

Pursued up Massachusetts avenue toward Huntington avenue, the thug fired one shot each at two men who pursued, shoved over an Ipswich woman, punched her male companion on jaw, leaped into a stolen sedan and raced away into traffic.

At Columbus avenue and Weston street, Roxbury, he crashed and overturned the sedan, but for the third time made an escape without his identity being learned.

Rosneau, who lived in Whitefield street, Dorchester, was alone in the shop, the Bay State Jewelry Company, near Columbus avenue, when the lone thug, a light-skinned colored man, according to police description, entered.

A scream, then two shots were heard by passersby and occupants of adjoining shops. The holdup man, clutching a handful of rings, dove out of the jewlery store and raced along the sidewalk in the direction of the railroad bridge and Huntington avenue.

FIRED AT PURSUER.

J. S. Nadel, proprietor of a tailor shop at No. 414 Massachusetts avenue, hearing the shots, ran from his store n time to see the thug, with still smoking gun in his hand, whirl by.

Nadel pursued, but when the thug wheeled and fired a shot wildly at him the tailor quit the chase.

Another tailor, William S. Sparrows, of No. 422 Massachusetts avenue, heard the shot fired at Nadel, and Sparrows came rushing out of his shop to take up the chase, only to halt when he, too, was fired upon.

As the thug bounded up the slight incline of the sidewalk, Mrs. Vera Merritt, Edgar Smith and Mrs. Dolly Wildham, all of Ipswich, blocked his path as they walked toward a South End house where they intended visiting friends.

SMASHED WOMAN.

Sensing something wrong, Mrs. Merritt thrust out a courageous foot in an attempt to trip the running man. But with a stiff football straight arm he bowld her over.

WIFE CALLS BUDLONG 'LIAR' TWICE IN TRIAL

Newport, R. I., July 7.—The word "liar" was flung in the direction of her husband twice today by Mrs. Jessie Margaret Budlong, acting as her own counsel and cross-examiner of the husband in Superior Court, where she is defending the divorce action he has brought.

Having discharged all attorneys who have appeared for her in her marital squabbles, Mrs. Budlong resumed today the unusual dramatic role of a society life, divorce defendant, cross-examining her accusing husband.

Truly a society "Portia" was Mrs. Budlong, as she shot query after query at her wealthy husband and he parried back with his answers.

After questioning him smartly concerning a paper o nwhich she said he had noted stocks and bonds he owned worth $720,000, and which he would not admit she had showed him, Mrs. Budlong, addressing Judge Blodgett, presiding, said:

"I am trying to show the Budlong income. He claims that his wife was living beyond his income. If I could go to Providence and get that paper I would show that he is a liar."

Judge Blodgett diplomatically smoothed over the rough going by stating that he did not believe the paper was necessary, inasmuch as the charge in the divorce action was cruelty.

When court opened today Mrs.

DEAF TO WOMAN PLEA IN STORE THEFTS CASE

In spite of her plea that she wanted to marry and "go straight," Miss Florence Sennott, alleged receiver of merchandise stolen from stores in Boston and Cambridge, was sentenced today in Superior Court to two years in jail and pay a fine of $500.

She was ordered sent to the jail at Pittsfield, after Assistant District Attorney John Burke asked that she be removed as far as possible from the scene of her alleged activities.

She pleaded guilty and threw herself on the mercy of the court. Her arrest several weeks ago was the culmination of detective work by E. P. O'Halloran and James H. Morrissey, officers of the Stores Mutual Association, and Special Officer Robert A. Lynch of Milk street station, who trapped her in a Peterboro street apartment, where they found $8,000 worth of goods.

Joseph Foley, who said he was engaged to marry Miss Sennott, appeared in court and begged mercy for her.

GERMANS SEND SACCO LIFE PLEA TO FULLER

Three radiograms protesting against imposing the death sentence on Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, charged with the murder of Ferdinand A. Parmenter, at Braintree, signed by German trade unionists and members of the Reichstag, including President Paul Loebe, were received by Governor Fuller today.

President Loebe's messages read: "Recommend strongly abolition of death sentence against Sacco-Vanzetti and their retrial, as judicial error in first trial appears possible."

The other two messages, identical, informed the Governor German trade unionists and members of the Reichstag are "very excited on Sacco-Vanzetti sentence," that they are "convinced of miscarriage of justice" and expect a retrial.

It was pointed out at the Governor's office that as the death sentence has not been imposed the matter is not before the chief executive.

APPEAL TO SAVE LIFE OF CARBARN SLAYERS

The first organized, direct appeal to Governor Fuller to save the three convicted Waltham carbarn slayers from the electric chair was made today in a letter to the Governor from the Law and Order League, Inc.

In the letter commutation of sentence to life imprisonment was asked for Edward J. Heinlein and John J. McLaughlin, while it was declared John J. Devereaux to be suffering from mental disorder growing out of the war.

"Temporarily inflamed public opinion should not be responsible for the taking of this man's life," the letter, signed by Daniel W. Harrington, president of the league, said.

The appeal to Governor Fuller follows:

"In behalf of the Law and Order League and as a citizen of Massachusetts, I request that the sentence of death imposed upon Edward J. Heinlein and John J.

BISHOP'S GIRL LEAPS INTO POND, SAVES BOY

Concord, N. H., July 7.—Although fully clothed, Miss Stella Brewster, daughter of Rt. Rev. Benjamin Brewster, Episcopal Bishop of Maine, plunged into the pond on St. Paul's School campus and rescued Kenneth Folsom, a small boy from drowning.

Miss Brewster, who has been attending the New England Episcopal conference here, was walking around the lake when she saw a canoe, in which the child and a young companion, Warren Miner, were playing, capsize. Miner, who could swim, reached shore safely, but Folsom was sinking when Miss Brewster went to his rescue.

MAN CHASED BY DOGS HANGS IN WIRE FENCE

Pawtucket, R. I., July 7 (A.P.).—An unidentified man was hanged early today in a wire fence in which he had become entangled after apparently having been chased by dogs.

Four hours later the man's body was discovered hanging in the fence. Liquor was probably a contributing cause to the accident, Dr. Jesse Satterhait, medical examiner, said.

Dogs were still lurking near the body when it was found in the fence where it skirted the railroad track. The police said the man evidently had tried to cross the tracks in the darkness, presumably pursued by the dogs, and had run headlong into the fence in which he was hopelessly entangled.

Higher Fare, or Wages?
Florida's Condition
Flying Bicycles
Gov. Smith's Nomination

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1926, by The Star Company.)

NEW YORK CITY has a subway strike, citizens are walking, which is education in the intelligent use of the ballot. They should walk until they learn to control public necessities by the use of their votes.

While it walks, the public wonders whether it is a workmen's strike for higher pay, or a corporation strike for higher fare. That is part of the delightful uncertainty in high finance.

WALL STREET, always sceptical, evidently thinks the subway strike means a higher fare. It celebrated by putting up the price of Interborough Subway stock three points. The strike will not last long, unless the American Federation of Labor takes a hand in it.

IF YOU ARE worrying about Florida, you needn't. If you worry about Florida's foolish land speculators, buying what they never saw, playing the "follow your leader" game, you are worrying about poor geese that need your sympathy.

FLORIDA IS IN good shape, as disclosed by Colonel Peter O. Knight of Tampa, and by David S. Wartield, president of the Seaboard Air Line. On June 1, Florida's State treasury

WIFE, AS OWN DIVORCE LAWYER, TWICE SAYS BUDLONG 'LIES'

PINS 'OTHER WOMEN' ON SPOUSE

"Will you admit your wife showed you a paper in 1919, upon which was written stocks and bonds of yours worth $720,000?" she asked.

Budlong answered: "No. I will not admit it. It may be true."

SALARY $15,000 YEARLY.

"If she told you that she took the list from your pocketbook, would you then admit it?" The answer was lost in the laughter that followed from spectators.

Then Mrs. Budlong flung her "liar," and when this incident was over, asked:

Q.—Your salary as head man with the New York Motors was $15,000 a year, wasn't it?" A.—Yes.

Q.—You had control of the company and you could have voted yourself any salary, couldn't you?

An objection by counsel for Budlong was sustained.

Asked by his cross-examining wife what the cost of maintaining eight servants was in 1920, Budlong said he could not remember.

TILT WITH JUDGE.

Q.—Would it average about $500 a month? A.—About that.

Q.—Then $6,000 a year for servants would be about right? A.—Probably that, or more.

Q.—How much did you spend on social expenses?

Judge Blodgett: What do you mean by social expenses?

Mrs. Budlong: He says that his wife cost him more money since 1918, because she wanted to get into society. I want to bring out the cost to Mr. Budlong of breaking his wife into society.

Judge Blodgett: Well, that didn't make much of an impression on me.

Mrs. Budlong: I am glad to hear that. While Your Honor may not lay much stress on it, will one of the Supreme Court judges do so?

"LIES DELIBERATELY."

Judge Blodgett: Perhaps Mr. Budlong would like to think over awhile the cost of your social ambitions.

Mrs. Budlong: I don't want him to talk it over with Mr. Phillips (Budlong's counsel). This witness is telling a deliberate lie. There is a difference of some $40,000 in expenses during the course of three years.

Then Mrs. Budlong, resuming cross-examination of her husband, turned her inquiries on affairs at their summer home in Greenwich. He testified, in answer to several questions, that she frequently stayed out late at night and on one occasion did not return home until 4 a. m.

Q.—How do you know your wife was out until 4 o'clock? A.—I remained up and I saw her come in.

"OTHER WOMEN."

Q.—Now, tell of cruelties in 1921. A.—I don't remember specific instances. When we were at Southampton you made many mean remarks to me. You said I was running around with other women when I was in New York. That was a usual statement of yours. And you insisted upon my going to dances twice a week and we would remain out until 1:30 in the morning.

Q.—State definitely the cruelties you suffered in 1921.

Mrs. Budlong, who had been using the coldly formal third person in putting her questions, even when referring to herself, had lapsed unparentally unconsciously into the more familiar mode of address, but Budlong took up the third person himself. He answered:

"Mrs. Budlong became more insistent in her demands for money. The outstanding cruelty was in the Winter of 1921 to 1922. It happened when Mr. Budlong arrived at the house. She made more remarks in an effort to make him angry."

HE DENIES CHARGE.

Q.—Didn't you begin to go around with a certain woman at Southampton in the Fall of 1921? I will give you her name on a piece of paper.

Mrs. Budlong walked over to the witness stand where her husband was seated. It was the closest they had been to each other for many months. She leaned over and wrote on a paper. Budlong glanced at the writing, flushed a bit and answered in a hard, even tone:

"No!"

Mrs. Budlong, without a sign, resumed her position away from the stand.

Q.—Haven't you been out with her since the Fall of 1921? A.—Yes, with your mother and others and only after you left me.

LIVED TOGETHER IN 1922.

Mrs. Budlong then drew from her husband a statement that they had occupied a room together at Southampton in 1922 up to about September 1. Then, Budlong said, she moved to a room at the other side of the house and refused to occupy the same room with him.

Q.—Have you any witnesses to prove Mrs. Budlong refused to live with you in 1922? A.—Why, no; I don't know how I could have.

Q.—You testified you tried to give your wife several automobiles. When was that? A.—One was in the Fall of 1922.

Q.—How did it happen you presented a $6,000 automobile to a chauffeur who would not live with you? A.—I thought a great deal of Mrs. Budlong and my family. I wanted to keep peace in the family.

WITNESSES TO THREATS.

Q.—You testified that Mrs. Budlong threatened to leave you. Have you any witnesses to the threats? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who are they? A.—They will be presented at the proper time.

CHELSEA SUICIDE AND GIRL HE SHOT WHEN SHE SPURNED ADVANCES

MAD SUITOR'S VICTIM

Nellie Jaworska, who was shot and perhaps fatally wounded by rejected suitor in Chelsea rooming house.

KILLS HIMSELF

WHERE ESCAPE WAS FOILED

Window in house at 11 High street, from which girl victim of crazed suitor attempted to escape after he had fired four bullets, all of which hit her.

SUMMONED COPS TO SCENE

Ben Blazo, High street boy, drawn to the scene by noise of shooting, notified the police, who rushed wounded girl and assailant to hospital.

WOMAN TELLS HOW SUITOR SHOT GIRL

Because Nellie Jaworska, seventeen, of High street, Chelsea, flouted the ardent pleas of Joseph Jozaitis to marry him, she is near death today in Chelsea Memorial Hospital with four bullet wounds in her body, Jozaitis, who fired the shots, is dead, victim of his own hand and a consuming jealousy.

While the girl was fighting for life on a hospital cot, authorities are trying to find her father, believed to be a resident of Manchester, N. H.

The story of the tragedy was told today by Mrs. Mary Hourihan in whose home it occurred.

LIVED IN TERROR.

The girl lived there, No. 11 High street, in mortal fear of Jozaitis, Mrs. Hourihan said, and had frequently discouraged his suit. He begged her constantly to marry him, but Nellie said she wanted a good time and was too young to wed. Jozaitis, who lived at No. 44 Walnut street, Chelsea, had made many threats of late.

A quarrel over the fact that Nellie had spent the holidays away from the rooming house, preceded the shooting. She had been visiting friends in Shirley.

Jozaitis went to the house, proposing a trip to Turner's Falls, and Mrs. Hourihan said she suspected he had secretly procured a marriage license and intended to go through with his threat to force the girl to marry him. Nellie refused to consider the trip and Jozaitis then suggested they go to Revere Beach.

FIRED FIVE SHOTS.

To this the girl replied: "No, I'm never going out with you again," and broke into a flood of tears.

Five shots followed. Locked in the parlor, Nellie could not escape the bullets. Four entered her body and one fatally wounded Jozaitis, just above the heart. He died later in the hospital.

The couple had known each other about six months. They were employed in the same factory. The girl is strikingly pretty. A brother, William, survives Jozaitis.

ASK MERCY FOR THREE SLAYERS

McLaughlin be commuted to life imprisonment.

"After carefully studying the Waltham carbarn case, I am thoroughly convinced that John J. McLaughlin and Edward J. Heinlein never saw Mr. Pernean and that they were outside the carbarn when the killing took place.

"Despite the above facts, the law says they are equally guilty with the man who actually committed the deed, yet I feel sure that the majority of our citizens favor commuting the sentence of these two men to life imprisonment.

"I believe that due consideration should be given the claim that John J. Devereaux is suffering from a mental disorder brought about by his service in the World War and that temporarily inflamed public opinion should not be responsible for the taking of this man's life.

"The Law and Order League favors the abolition of capital punishment, providing the power of the parole boards is curbed to the extent that a man convicted of a deliberate murder in put where he can do no more harm."

Another move to stay the execution was made by the clemency committee.

A plea to Governor Fuller to halt the triple execution, set for the week of August 3, will be made by the committee immediately on the ground of newly-discovered evidence.

The committee has engaged the law firm of Jugging, Fielding and Ellsworth of No. 13 State street.

While the Clemency Committee failed to reveal the evidence upon which the plea for a stay of execution would be made, it was said that the argument would be that the execution would prejudice the trial of Peter McLaughlin, who will be tried for the same offence in the Fall. Peter is a brother of John J. McLaughlin and was arrested later than the others in New York.

The government rates Devereaux as sub-normal and is paying him 20 per cent. Commander David Lafft, Roxbury Post No. 44, American Legion, pointed out in a letter to the Clemency Committee.

At low tide, when the water depth is about 24 or 25 feet, it was believed that the hull of the 651 would be visible. At present the submarine lies in the direct line of river traffic.

Rear Admiral Plunkett, returning to the navy yard after going up the river to join the 651 on her journey, announced that from present indications the submarine would not be docked until tomorrow, unless divers are successful in replacing the two pontoons which broke away. The admiral exonerated the pilot.

The navy has established a censorship on information.

Captain W. V. Tomb, commanding the Vestal, had just congratulated his Falcon on the way the tortuous channels of Hell Gate had been successfully negotiated, when he turned to look at the 651, and shouted:

"She's hit."

Eye-witnesses said that the submarine stood quite still for a moment and then plunged. The Falcon bumped and scraped the 651 struck.

It was evident that the pontoons had sprung leaks after being bumped by the Falcon, as they settled very fast. Within ten minutes before that the work of raising the 851 or dragging her off the shoal would be ordered until low tide.

Guests included representatives of Governor Fuller and Mayor Nichols, Allan Forbes, Mayor Ira Wanamaker, air officer of the First Corps Area; Captain H. W. BYRD GIVES HUB POST HIS FLAG

An American Legion flag that Commander Richard E. Byrd carried over the North Pole in his airplane was given today by the Naval hero to the Groscup-Pishon Post at a luncheon tended the flier at the Copley Plaza.

More than 500 persons, including officials of city and State, representatives of industry, art and the press, heard Byrd declare the United States is on the eve of a great era of commercial aviation development.

GIVEN GOLDEN BUTTON.

After giving unstinted praise to his comrades on the polar expedition, he paid a tribute to the publishers of the nation for their aid to aviation development, and especially mentioned the publishers of Boston for their support of the pioneer work toward popularizing aviation that was carried on at Squantum.

Byrd was made an honorary commander of the Groscup-Pishon Post and presented with a commander's badge and an American Legion button of spun gold. The presentation was made "by air," by dainty Gertrude Westling, known as the daughter of the post, who directed a miniature airplane at Commander Byrd from a balcony.

SEEK MEDAL FOR HIM.

The dainty danseuse also presented the distinguished guest with a bouquet and she made her first appearance at the luncheon from a realistic North Pole that was carried to the head table. Other stunts were on the program and Commander Carroll Swan of the post told of the efforts launched in Congress to get a Congressional Medal of Honr for Byrd.

crushed his fist into Smith's jaw and resumed his flight.

Somewhere beyond the bridge he leaped into the flivver sedan he had parked and whirled through the traffic around the block to Columbus avenue again, wrecking the machine at Weston street. The machine, owned by Daniel Feinberg of No. 388 Albany street, had been stolen three hours earlier in the South End.

Rozenau was found dying on the floor of the ring-scattered jewelry store by other shop proprietors, who rushed in after the shots were fired.

One of the shots had pierced his abdomen, but the other apparently had gone wild. He was rushed to the City Hospital, but died.

Police describe the murder-bandit as, twenty-two years old five feet six inches tall, weighing 170 pounds; a light-skinned colored man, who wore a white coat such as barbers wear.

GRANTED ALIMONY OF $300 A WEEK

Wins Custody of Son Also in Suit Charging Cruel Treatment

Barely five years after Boston and New York society thronged to their wedding, John R. Thorndike and his wife, the former Caroline Lydia Wyeth, were separated today by a divorce decree granted Mrs. Thorndike by Judge McCook in the Probate Court at Dedham.

The Thorndike-Wyeth nuptials in St. James' Church, Madison avenue, New York, in 1921, were one of the most talked of society wedlings of that year, for while the groom descended from Boston bluebloods, his bride numbered the oldest New York families among her progenitors.

Citing a long list of alleged abuses, including the charge that her husband bound her wrists with a dog leash and threatened her life with a revolver, Mrs. Thorndike, who now lives in Brookline, was granted custody of her 4-year-old son, John, and alimony of $300 a month.

She testified that Thorndike covered her body with seventeen bruises on one occasion. At other times he locked her in the library for an hour at a time, she said.

While intoxicated, according to the wife's story, Thorndike several times retired to the barn of their estate, taking a revolver with him, and threatening to shoot himself while he taunted her with the admonition that friends and neighbors would know she was the cause of his death.

She also described a scene that occurred when she started out to play tennis, Thorndike following, she said, and dragging her back to the house and throwing her on a bed.

Thorndike is a graduate of Harvard and M. I. T., with degrees in architecture, and is owner of a country estate at Southboro, where he lived as a gentleman farmer.

WANTS $100,000
Miss Verna J. Saunders of Malden wants $50,000 heart balm from Dr. Harvey W. Hicks, Back Bay dentist, and $50,000 from his mother, Mrs. Emmeline Hicks Leeds, alleging she holds an unused marriage license and Mrs. Leeds interfered.

ASKS $100,000 HEART BALM

Damage to her affections through a broken engagement is placed at $100,000 by Miss Verna J. Saunders of No. 895 Main street, Malden, who is suing Dr. Harvey W. Hicks, Back Bay dentist, for breach of promise, and his mother, Mrs. Emmeline Hicks Leeds, of No. 1021 Beacon street, whom she accuses of inducing her son to break his engagement. Each suit is for $50,000.

Miss Saunders, a student of chemistry at Columbia University, says she has in her possession an application which she and Dr. Hicks made for a license to wed in 1921, and also a number of letters the dentist wrote her.

The record of the Malden City Clerk shows that Dr. Hicks and Susie Howard of No. 49 Glen street, Malden, received a license to wed in June, but does not disclose whether they have been married.

Through her attorney, John F. Ryan, Miss Saunders has attached the interests of the defendants in a fund in the Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Company.

CAPTURE 10 IN RUM TRAP

Opening a campaign to clean up the Scituates, including drying up of liquor sources, Police Chief Michael Stewart of Scituate arrested two men and two women today, after taking part in capturing ten rum runners in two parties.

With Chief Stewart in the rum captures worked Captain J. J. Glynn of the North Scituate coast guard and a squad of Scituate officers.

One rum trap corralled John Brown of Allston, William Wright of Hennessey street, and Arthur Murphy of Cambridge street, Boston, and Louis Salvadore of Cohasset, together with 380 gallons of alcohol in a big touring car.

The second trap embodied six men, whose names were not given out, another big touring car and 2,100 gallons of alcohol.

$12,000 THEFT CHARGED

Charles M. Faucl, South Boston, under indictment in matters arising out of the Swampscott rum trial, and proprietor of a floating gasoline station, was arraigned today in Federal District Court on two secret indictments charging him with defrauding the government out of $12,000 in gasoline sales in connection with a coast guard boatswain.

Faucl, during 1925 and the early part of 1926, had a contract to supply coast guard vessels with gasoline and motor oils. The boatswain, who has not been apprehended, was also indicted.

Faucl pleaded not guilty and was held in $,000 bail. His wife, who furnished $5,000 bail for him on the Swampscott indictment, surrendered him to the court today when he was arraigned. He must now secure $5,000 bail before regaining his liberty.

MOTHER HEARS SLAYER TRIAL

Lowell, July 7.— With his mother watching sorrowfully, Donald M. Ferguson, twenty-three, confessed slayer of Mrs. Esther A. Frost, elderly Lowell shopkeeper, was arraigned today in District Court and held for the September term of the Grand Jury.

His mother, Mrs. Frank Beaucage, with whom the youth has become reconciled since the killing, sat in the courtroom and heard witnesses describe details of the woman's death.

Mrs. Beaucage was away from home at the time of the crime, having quarreled with her son regarding his prospective marriage to Miss Catherine Hickey. It was to Mrs. Beaucage that Ferguson went for money for the wedding that Ferguson killed, according to the police report of his alleged confession.

Ferguson was returned to jail without bail. The grand jury will convene here on September 1.

Under grilling by Attorney Cornelius Sullivan, defense counsel, who has announced Ferguson's plea of defense will be insanity, Dr. Marshall Allen, medical examiner, told of finding six wounds on the woman's head, two pillow cases around her head, and an apron in her mouth.

Mrs. Winona Burns, who found the body was a witness. Patrolman John T. Kelly, who forced the back door which the store of Mrs. Frost is located, was subjected to long grilling. He admitted being a relative of Mrs. Frost by marriage.

RICH GIRL WINS DIVORCE SUIT

The last chapter of the romance of a wealthy girl and her $40-a-week husband was written in Norfolk Probate Court today when Mrs. Helda C. Hutchinson of Brookline was granted a divorce from Willis E. Hutchinson, whose arrest three years ago for embezzlement was the beginning of the end.

Hutchinson and his wife, the daughter of a rich broker, were living happily in Watertown with their baby daughter, Lois, when Boston police inspectors arrested him for larceny of $10,000 from the Exchange Trust Company.

Stock gambling figured in the case according to the police, and they claimed to have obtained possession of checks for huge sums, of some of which the name of Hutchinson's father had been attached without his consent.

Prosecution was dropped, but Mrs. Hutchinson today testified, under questioning by her counsel, Attorney John P. Feeney, that her husband deserted her in February, 1923, four months after his arrest. She was granted custody of the daughter.

The agents confiscated more than 5,000 of the coins and the die from which they were made.

CAPTAIN HICKEY DIES SUDDENLY

Captain James F. Hickey of Police Station 7, Boston, died suddenly today at his Summer home, No. 184 Shore drive, Winthrop.

The veteran police official was sixty-five years old last April 7, and had been a member of the Boston Police Department since 1888.

Growing up, he spent a few years patrolling, then joined the police and was assigned to the Jay street station, from where he patrolled a Bowdoin square beat for a dozen years.

When his sergeantcy came he was transferred to Dudley street, then to South Boston and next to Lagrange street, where he was in charge of Chinatown.

His lieutenancy took him to the Back Bay station, and when Captain Brickley retired in 1917 Hickey was promoted to captain and assigned to Captain Brickley's place at East Boston.

He was to have returned from vacation last Saturday, but an organic ailment set in, not one, however, considered serious.

He is survived by one sister, Miss Catherine Hickey, and two brothers, Dr. John A. Hickey and ex-Mayor Charles Hickey of Brockton. A brother-in-law is T. J. Kennedy, president of the Columbia Trust Company, East Boston.

COP STRANGLES MADDENED DOG BARE-HANDED

Leaps Fence and Kills Animal Threatening a Neighborhood in Cambridge

A maddened dog running through Thorndike street, East Cambridge, spread terror in the hearts of many persons today and probably would have caused serious injuries but for Patrolman John Mullally and Sergeant Patrick J. Healy of the East Cambridge station who risked their lives to kill the animal.

After Sergeant Healy had fired a shot at the animal and wounded it, Patrolman Mullally leaped a fence in front of No. 89 Thorndike street, behind which the animal had taken refuge, and choked it to death with his bare hands.

The police were notified of the dog's actions by actions by excited residents of Thorndike street, who telephoned the East Cambridge station. Patrolman George Patton was on the desk at the time and he notified Sergeant Healy and Mullally and they left immediately.

The dog, foaming at the mouth, was walking up Thorndike street as the two policemen approached. Sergeant Healy whipped out his revolver and fired, the bullet lodging in the dog's body.

The maddened animal leaped a fence in front of No. 89 and crouched there until Patrolman Mullally, following closely, grasped it about the throat and choked it.

The owner of the dog or is being sought and the police are making a careful checking to learn if anyone was bitten.

A FRENCH MECHANIC has invented a flying bicycle and has ridden it at a height of 150 feet in the air. He predicts that everybody will be able to fly economically.

You ride the bicycle along the ground, then by a simple transformation wings spread out, and taking advantage of your momentum, you rise and paddle through the air 150 feet above the ground.

HOW MANY have dreamed of doing exactly that without a bicycle; running swiftly, starting to jump a small puddle of water, spreading out the arms, then flying over fields and fences?

Evolutionists tell you that such dreams call back faint memories of days when we used to be birds, just as the frequent dream of falling through space recalls a time when we lived in trees and fell off a limb occasionally.

NEW YORK'S Tammany Hall on July 5 celebrated the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the Declaration of Independence and the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson, with great enthusiasm.

For the first time in its history Tammany includes the Governor of New York and the Mayor of New York City as members of the Tammany organization and Tammany society.

John R. Voorhies, venerable grand sachem, passed his ninetieth birthday, nominated Governor Smith for President of the United States and asked him to attend Tammany's celebration on July 4, 1929, as President of the United States.

GOVERNOR SMITH is unquestionably an active candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination of 1928 and any candidate that hopes to beat him has a hard fight ahead. Governor Smith's friends say that if he is defeated, it will be due to his Catholic religion. That objection to a man's religious belief is not an American reason for rejecting his candidacy, and that, if Governor Smith is rejected on that account, whoever gets the nomination will also get a beating from Governor Smith's friends.

MILK IS TO be shipped from farms to cities in railroad tanks holding 6,000 gallons, the tanks insulated, making ice unnecessary, with 3-8-inch steel, two glass linings, two inches of cork, and an outside covering.

In the city, the milk will be forced by compressed air into glass lined 2000 gallon tanks, taken to pasteurizing plants, then bottled.

IT IS AN ingenious arrangement. Let us hope two things:

First, that the farmer who milks the cow and weans the calf will get something out of it;

Second, that superheated steam or some other agent will keep tanks and connecting pipes absolutely clean.

ADVOCATES OF light wine and beer will sign when they read this: The city of Munich, possessing the Hofbrau, with such extraordinarily good beer, has rejected a proposition to tax beer in order to build houses for the people.

Hunt for a Successor to Andrews Begins as He Sails for England

Washington, July 7 (I.N.S.).—With Lincoln C. Andrews' letter of resignation as prohibition director temporarily pigeon-holed on Secretary Mellon's desk, a quiet search already has been undertaken by administration officials to select his successor.

Major-General John F. O'Ryan, who commanded the 77th Division in France, and Franklin D'Olier, former head of the American Legion, are both under consideration.

Their names were proposed by General Andrews himself in his final conference with Secretary Mellon, at which he presented his resignation, and then was prevailed upon to withhold it until his return from England. He sailed from here today from New York to negotiate a new Anglo-American agreement against rumrunning.

Secretary Mellon was greatly disturbed by Andrews' letter, which said that upon his return from England the reorganization of the prohibition enforcement system would be completed and that as this reorganization was his real mission who he accepted the post he wished to be "relieved" at the pleasure of Mr. Mellon.

The boys, in an old boat with no oars, were blown far out in the lake. Four inches of water seeped through a hole in the bottom, but Vernon stopped the inflow with his finger.

Where Is Aly?

Officer A. L. Marinelli wants his little brown terrier Aly to come back home, and all will be forgiven. Aly likes to ride out and walk back.

'ALY' TOOK ONE RIDE TOO MANY

"Aly's" penchant for automobiles and police officers has been his undoing.

"Aly" is a little brown Irish terrier belonging to Officer A. L. Marinelli, attached to traffic headquarters and residing at 1056 Bennington street, East Boston. He has been missing from home since Saturday night and Officer Marinelli is worried, not because the dog is away, for "Aly" has traveled widely, but because his stay is more prolonged than ever before.

All automobiles look the same to "Aly." He jumps into the first one he sees, rides until tired, then jumps out and follows the first police officer he sees to the station where his collar identifies him and he is returned safely home. In this manner he has traveled alone to Lynn, Winthrop, Revere, Chelsea and Peabody, always getting back home within 48 hours.

But this time things are different. "Aly" wears no collar-tag to identify him. Instead he wears a plain harness.

Officer Marinelli thinks "Aly" has tired of his travels by now and longs to get back to Orient Heights. He believes the dog is hanging around some Greater Boston police station, and asks all officers to keep a watch for the animal and notify him at once if he is seen.

Medway, July 7 (A.P.).—Twenty-three cows perished today in a fire that destroyed two barns on the Koshivas farm on Morse's Hill.

Members of the family, awakened by the sounds made by the frightened cattle, discovered the larger barn burning fiercely. They saved a few cows and two horses. The Medway and West Medway fire departments checked further spread of the flames.

The fire was attributed to spontaneous combustion in freshly cut hay.

RIDING THRILLS IN NEWSREEL

Italy's famous daredevil cavalry riders are pictured in new thrills in the current issue No. 54 of International Newsreel now being shown at leading theatres in Greater Boston. This troupe of cavalrymen, known the world over for its break-neck stunts, rode over the riskiest course in the world at Pinerolo, Italy, for the special edification of the young Crown Prince. With His Royal Highness and General Emio, commander of the regiment, looking on, no hazard was too great to daunt these reckless riders. Slow-motion shots of many of the most dangerous rides add to the general effectiveness of this remarkable picture.

Another most interesting subject in the current issue of International Newsreel is the exclusive showing of the first pictures of the funeral of the late Emperor of Korea. Amid Oriental pomp that has seldom been equalled, the body of the dead ruler is borne through the streets in an immense catafalque carried by hundreds of marchers. Other thousands in the funeral procession bear gifts of the most costly kind for the gods. The picture was filmed in the town of Seoul with its picturesque buildings furnishing a spectacular setting.

TRAFFIC COUNT SHOWS 169,520 VEHICLES

Vehicular traffic, entering and leaving downtown Boston during the working day, has increased more than 21 per cent. in two years, according to figures of the traffic count revealed today by the Boston City Planning Board and the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Counters stationed on highways, bridges and ferries checked 169,520 vehicles from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. The count in 1924 was 139,914.

Passenger cars showed the greatest increase, 24 per cent. There were 84,642 in 1924 and 105,373 in the latest check-up. Trucks increased 21½ per cent., while horse-drawn vehicles decreased by the same percentage.

A majority or 64½ per cent. of all cars entering the downtown section are passenger cars, according to the 1926 count, while in 1924, passenger cars comprised 61 per cent. of the total.

Street improvements and changes in traffic rules are shown to have affected the flow of traffic where increases and decreases were recorded in the count.

PONY BALLET GOES OVER BIG

The pony ballet, which is part of the circus week program at the Metropolitan, proved a favorite with 100 crippled children at the Massachusetts Hospital School at Canton. CIRCUS STAGED FOR CRIPPLES

More than 100 crippled children confined to Massachusetts Hospital School, Canton, had the time of their young lives today when several of the "Circus Week" performers from the Metropolitan Theatre went to their institution to give them a circus all their own. The entertainment was arranged by the Boston Evening American in conjunction with the Metropolitan.

One of the acts that the children enjoyed especially was the pony ballet in which six lovely girls danced, using attractive costumes.

At the conclusion of the "circus", the hilarious feature comedy movie, "It's The Old Army Game", in which W. C. Fields, formerly of the "Follies", is starred, was presented for the children. Despite their infirmities they proved they are normal mentally by not missing any of the laughs with which the picture is filled. A more receptive audience never witnessed a feature picture. This picture is being shown at the Metropolitan this week.

Among the Metropolitan's "Circus Week" entertainers who will be drawn from for tomorrow's show at New England Peabody Home For Crippled Children, New ton Centre are Franklyn D'Amore & Company, unusually clever comedy acrobats, Six Hassans, dancing dervishes, whose act is so strenuous that one of them has an injured hand in splints this week, Carlos' "Circus," which includes four sawdust comedians, four ponies and two mules, Alfred Latell, imitator of animals, Spencer & Beach, tumblers and Tom Campbell, who does a nifty rube and clown act. "It's The Old Army Game" will also be shown.

BOY WHO STOLE $500 REPENTS

Arthur Whitney, fifteen-year-old Somervilleb oy, absconded with $500 belonging to a Somerville department store, police say, but Arthur had a tender conscience and told Lieutenant John Ray that he "could not have a good time on somebody else's money."

It was charged that Arthur disappeared June 23 with $500 which he was supposed to deposit in a bank for the Park-Snow Company, by whom he was employed. The money never got in the Park-Snow account and Arthur's folks notified police hew as missing.

The boy walked into the police station and told Lieutenant Ray he was all through. "I've been over to New York and would have had a good time, but it was somebody else's money."

The boy informed the lieutenant he had a room on Warren avenue, Lieutenant Thomas Damery and Patrolman Charles Fulton went to the room today and found an array of electrical and mechanical equipment.

A large electric fan was whirring, A motion picture camera was set up for action. There was a printing press and a few other devices that were all ready for a busy day. And the landlady told them there was a big electric light bill.

Arthur appeared in the Somerville District Court and pleaded not guilty to the larceny charge. His case was held for the Juvenile Court.

How many people actually have halitosis (unpleasant breath)?

Read what dentists have to say about this:

EVERY reader of Listerine advertising knows about halitosis (unpleasant breath), that insidious thing that not even your best friends discuss with you.

Yet there are still a few "doubting Thomas" folks who think halitosis is only a state of mind.

Out of simple curiosity we put this que up to a carefully selected list of dentists—1000 of th and in a letter asked them the following:

> Do you ever use Listerine, in self-defense, in the mouth of a patient troubled with halitosis, unpleasant breath?
>
> Please answer if you use it this way (1) Frequently, (2) Occasionally, or (3) Never.

Four hundred and forty replied as follows:

> 83% said "Frequently"
> 15% said "Occasionally"
> Only 2% said "Never."

Now, what human being meets halitosis at closer range, face to face, than the dentist? And who would be a better judge of this condition—and how to combat it—than the dentist?—Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, U. S. A.

SAYS 'TOM' WAS LIQUOR PILOT

Police Inspector "Tom" Quigley of Chelsea personally escorted a party of men and girls to a house where they could buy liquor one night in 1923, according to the story told in Federal court today by Percy Freedman, inmate of State Prison and star witness against Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley and others in the Chelsea conspiracy case.

Inspector Quigley, brother of the mayor, was in uniform, said Freedman, when the latter steered his taxicab to the curb and inquired where his fares could get a drink.

"Tom' Quigley got into the cab and we went to a dwelling house, where he told us to stop," testified Freedman. "There he told one of the men to use his name, saying, 'Just say Tom Quigley sent you and you want a bottle.' The man got the bottle."

Freedman said he accompanied Tom Quigley while the latter went around collecting money from women liquor sellers, and he named the places, two of them in Walnut street and one in Arlington street, Chelsea. At one of the places he saw men drinking at tables, he testified.

Another whom he accompanied on collecting trips, according to his testimony was Eddie Carlon, who, like Inspector Quigley, is one of the defendants in the trial. Carlon collected from three saloons in the heart of the city, said the witness.

RED TOP CORN AND CALLOUS PLASTER

IF a heavy cloth were bound tightly across your nose and mouth interfering with your supply of air, you would soon feel mighty hot and uncomfortable.

You're bound to experience a similar sense of discomfort if you wear shoes made of any non-porous material. For your feet need air as well as your lungs.

Advice to the Foot Weary

Here is a simple, common-sense suggestion—based on scientific facts—that will relieve much of your suffering

IF you are subject to foot agony, if your feet burn and ache at night . . . it is probably due to the fact that you are not wearing leather shoes.

Perhaps you are wearing shoes soled with one of the non-porous materials, known as "leather substitutes." If so, you are not playing fair with your feet.

Scientists know that your skin needs a generous supply of air. Cut off this supply—or limit it—and you are bound to suffer.

Air is needed not only to reduce perspiration but to stimulate blood circulation. And lack of the latter is the underlying cause of numerous foot ailments.

Many of your foot troubles can be eliminated, if you will wear nothing but sensible, leather shoes.

The reason for this is quite simple. Leather is fibrous with millions of tiny air spaces, which inhale and exhale at every step, allowing your feet really to breathe.

As a consequence your feet are much warmer in winter and cooler in summer. Just plain, common-sense would tell you that.

Nothing takes the place of

LEATHER

AMERICAN LEATHER PRODUCERS, Inc.
ONE MADISON AVENUE NEW YORK CITY

THERE is no substitute for leather . . . nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Remember that leather is porous . . . it lets your feet breathe . . . and it doesn't hold heat.

Better stick to leather. You'll look better, feel better and be better.

Your woolen stockings cost from $5 to $8! Don't risk a single washing with ordinary soap

Silk stockings — gossamer-thin, myriad-tinted, costly — must be washed the safest way

Two unseen enemies threaten to destroy their sheen, their fresh, new look

DELICATE, frail as cobwebs the stockings you wear with your evening gowns. Scarcely less gossamer-thin are those for the tailleur. And for golf such gay woolens full of the spirit of sport!

Silk or wool or rayon, your precious stockings must withstand repeated washings.

Again and again the dust, the perspiration stains—so destructive—must be cleansed away. Yet with a single washing you may destroy forever their lovely sheen, their new, fresh look! Two unseen enemies are ready to attack your delicate stockings in the washing!

The first enemy is rubbing. Rubbing with cake soap ruins silk stockings, deadens their bloom, breaks the tiny fibres—makes them wear out long before they should. Sports stockings are made harsh, scratchy, uncomfortable by rubbing. It mats and shrinks wool ruinously. No rubbing is necessary with Lux. Its fragile tissue-thin flakes whip up immediately into a bowlful of rich, bubbling suds! Refreshing, renewing, absolutely safe!

The second enemy is free alkali. Ordinary soaps—cakes, flakes or chips—containing free alkali are ruinous. The delicate silk and wool fibres are weakened—their life cut in half, colors faded, by the action of alkali. There is no free alkali in Lux. Absolutely pure, Lux is safe for anything water alone won't harm!

Safeguard your precious stockings—so costly, too—never entrust them to a single washing in anything but Lux! Lux keeps them looking like new. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

If it's safe in pure water alone it's safe in LUX

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Americans in London Preparing for Busy Social Season and Presentation at Court

AMERICAN AND EUROPEAN society is now gathering in London for the season's climax, and for the hundreds of visitors in Britain's capital to whom royal and aristocratic portals are open, there's a hectic six weeks in store.

LONDON HOTEL managers are besieged with demands for rooms, and it's quite the thing socially for a smart matron to be established at one of the famous hostelries instead of having a house. At the Savoy, for instance.

DEBUTANTES, TOO, with their chaperons or parents, often as not have their town abodes in luxurious apartments at the large hotels, from whence they sally forth to the most important event yet starring their short social existences, the presentation at court.

YOUNG AMERICANS making the double curtsy before Their Majesties include Miss Elise O'Brien of Detroit; Miss Agatha Van den Berg, a fair New Orleanian; Miss Joyce Stuyvesant-Holmes of New York, and Miss Letitce La Prayle, hailing from the far West Coast.

AS KING GEORGIE and Queen Mary are not this season departing to make their annual Balmoral castle visit, and Scotland will know them not, the long London season continues with unabated gayety.

MOST OF SOCIETY is returning to town directly after the Cowes regatta and Their Majesties feel they should continue to adorn the festive scene. Hence the abandonment of their Scottish visit, something which has not occurred for many a year.

MATILDA HOUGHTON

AT ALL EVENTS, they'll visit Sandringham, their Norfolk estate, in the late Autumn. And possibly by then, or before, the rumored engagement of Prince Henry to a charming young American may have become a pleasant fact.

SOCIETY, LOVING to speculate upon royal engagements, has allied the young Prince with various charming girls, none more attractive than Lady Mary Scott, pretty and red-haired, and daughter of a Scottish lord. But according to Dame Rumor, Lady Mary gives way to another.

THEY SAY in London that the smartest motor car in town is that tooled about by Miss Matilda Houghton, daughter of the American Ambassador. It's a cream-colored body with long, rakish lines, upholstered in crimson leather, really an eye-filling spectacle with Miss Houghton at the wheel.

RECENT TRAVELERS overseas putting up at the Roosevelt in New York en route were the W. Rodman Peabodys, with their daughter, Miss Gertrude Peabody, Miss Ralph Emerson and Miss Julia Stephenson.

It was designed for road speeds of from 45 to 55 miles per hour without wear and tear on the motor.

That's why you can run this new-type car at high speed hour after hour.

It will pickup in high gear from 5 to 40 miles an hour in 21 seconds.

It has ample power to climb steep hills in high . . . gear shifting reduced to a minimum.

It has a modern full pressure-feed oiling system.

That's one reason why the Overland Six will run longer than other cars without a pile of repair bills.

Modern engineering has made possible a lower gravity center.

The Overland Six fairly hugs the ground. Without sidesway, slipping or wandering . . . it is surprisingly safe and easy to control. In performance this remarkable new type car is brilliant.

The only way to appreciate it is to actually drive the car. Sit behind the wheel and experience yourself the wonderful "thrill" of its tremendous power, its lightning pickup and amazing bursts of speed.

In fairness to yourself, see this car.

NOTE: 4-wheel brakes are now furnished as optional equipment at slight extra cost.

Now we manufacture our own weather

Great news! We have installed a new refrigerating plant. The most modern of its kind, the most scientific, and the costliest. Actually manufactures weather. Every particle of air in the theatre thoroughly washed and cooled — every five minutes. Humidity scientifically lowered by refrigeration. No draughts, no chills, no unevenness of temperature. Just ideal climate. We repeat, it's great news. And you won't know how great it is until you come here some hot, sweltering day and sit through a great show in the most comfortable, most healthful atmosphere you ever breathed!

It's always cool at the Metropolitan!

Big Shows all year 'round

The shows at the Metropolitan are just as big and as spectacular in the summer as they are any other time of the year. That's due to Metropolitan-Publix policy which brings not only the best shows to Boston but brings them all year 'round. The Metropolitan is one of the theatres in the nation-wide chain of Publix Theatres organized to present entertainment of a quality that is out of the scope of the theatre operating individually.

RESTORES OLD TIRE PRICES

Tire prices of two years ago are restored by the reductions announced today by Fred Moore, district manager of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company.

Comparison of the new price list with prices of the majority of sizes and types for 1924 shows how so-called "inflation" has been squeezed out of tire prices, due to the lowering of the cost of crude rubber.

Moore is in the midst of his twenty-fourth year as a district manager who hangs up records. He has exceeded every quota the factory has set and is already far ahead of this year's mark.

Mr. Moore attributed his success to the quality of Silvertown tires. He said:

"Silvertowns were always good but this year there is more mileage in Goodrich Silvertown Cords than in any tires the company has ever built. Silvertowns have always been the sum total of tire excellence. This accomplishment is one of patience and careful attention to small things—small things which make a tremendous total."

PONTIAC TEST HALF OVER

Two weeks more to run. After two weeks the Pontiac sedan now on its second long-test run, will have completed a thirty-one-day grind and the person guessing most correctly the mileage of the run, will be given a new Pontiac sedan. The run is being made on a tread mill in the salesrooms of the Oakland Motor Company of New England, No. 655 Beacon street.

More than 2,000 persons have already registered their guesses. These estimates range from 5,200 to 25,000 miles. Every resident of Metropolitan Boston is eligible to record a guess.

The car is now in its forty-eighth day of continuous operation, the second test run, having begun immediately after the completion of a thirty-day run. The car has shown no sign of strain.

RECLAMATION AIDS DODGE

Reclamation of waste material is one of the means employed by the Dodge Brothers to reduce manufacturing costs. Thousands of tons of iron, steel, lumber, paper and other material are diverted from the waste heap at the Dodge factory under a highly efficient system of reclamation.

Every piece of discarded metal, lumber and paper that cannot be utilized in some manner in the plant, is collected and segregated in bins and ultimately finds its way back to its point of origin to be used again in the manufacture of new material. The salvage of lumber alone gets millions of board feet a year and effects a saving to Dodge Brothers of hundreds of thousands of dollars. Even scrap papers are collected. In 1925 it filled 41 cars.

STEARNS PLANT HIGH TYPE

The highest type of motor car engineering in the country is found in the plant of the B. F. Stearns Company, of Cleveland, manufacturers of Stearns-Knight cars, according to the verdict of engineers who recently inspected the methods of manufacture employed there.

"The plant equipment is classified along with that of the best known European builders," said Frank Cooper, sales manager of the Boston Stearns Company. "New machinery in the factory is especially built to conform to the exacting requirements of the construction of Knight sleeve valve motors. The assembly room, where the sliding sleeves are finished and fitted, has been termed as more like a scientific workroom than any other motor manufacturing department in the country."

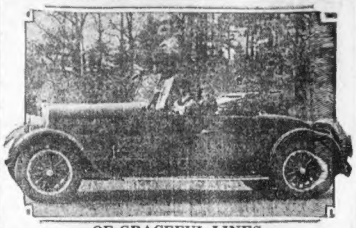
MID-WEEK MOTOR NEWS

By J. HERBERT DODGE, Automobile Editor

OFF FOR A SWIM IN ROADSTER DREAM



OF GRACEFUL LINES
This is the New Peerless Model Six-80 sport roadster.

NEW ROADSTER TYPE OFFERED

With the appearance of the Small Six, Model Six-80, three different sizes of their sport roadster are being offered to the public by the Peerless Motor Car Corporation. The new model, because if its size, price and economy of operation, has sprung into instant popularity. Peter Di Paola, famous racing driver, operates a Peerless roadster when off the track.

PEERLESS HAS BIG SHOWROOM

One of the largest, if not the largest automobile display room in the world was opened by the Peerless Motor Car Corporation at the Elysium, a Cleveland ice skating rink. The Peerless Corporation leased the mammoth building for the Summer months.

The structure which is located on Euclid avenue is said to be the largest skating rink in the world and its prodigious size permits the display of a full line of Peerless cars on one floor.

WHIPPET GAINS QUICK FAVOR

A week after its introduction to Boston motorists, the Overland Whippet, a new departure in automobile engineering, has already caused a record wave of interest in automobile circles, according to Herbert G. Fitch, district manager of the Willys-Overland Company.

"This European type car," said Mr. Fitch, "adapted to American driving conditions, has elicited an interest which is already reaching record-breaking heights."

The new car has been demonstrated 12 hours a day since it was announced here. Many engineers, anxious to test the new product, have made requests for special rides.

As a result of demands of interested motorists, special fifteen minute tests are being held over a prescribed route to bring out the performance capabilities of the car. Tests include slow driving, quick acceleration, climbing and quick stopping.

The manufacturers claim that the new car has something fundamentally different from all previous conceptions of light car ability, and that in quick bursts of speed it is equal to the average six-cylinder car. It has been demonstrated, they say, that there is no hill which other much larger cars have covered in high gear that it cannot cover in the same manner.

BIG CUT IN TIRE PRICES

Radical reduction in the prices of automobile tires and tubes were announced by several of the largest manufacturers to take effect immediately. The rapid decline in the price of crude rubber is responsible for the new scale.

Chances in price vary from two to twenty per cent, according to the size of tires. The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Kelley Springfield and Dunlop products were the first to set new prices. The Firestone and United States companies announced they would meet any reductions.

HANGS CREPE ON DOOR, THEN SLAYS WIFE

South Bend, Ind., July 7.—After carefully hanging crepe on the front door of his home near here, William Joseph, 60, walked to his bedroom, picked up a shotgun and killed his wife, who was bending over a washtub in the rear of their home. Joseph then walked about thirty feet away, pointed the shotgun at his own face and pulled the trigger. He died instantly.

'BOYS DON'T LIKE PETTING? APPLESAUCE,' SAY GIRLS

Chicago, July 7 (I.N.S.)—The New York Y. M. C. A. survey, which found that "boys prefer girls who do not pet," is a lot of "prehistoric applesauce," in the opinion of 50 Chicago Y. W. C. A. girls.

The girls, all pretty and "modern," held an indignation meeting at which they assailed in none too complimentary terms the irritating report of the New York "Y" boys.

"There was as much petting in grandfather's day as now," say the girls. "The difference is grandpa and grandma were not so frank and open about it.

"These 'Y' men still consider they have to maintain their grandfather's attitude and say—in public, at least—that they don't like girls who pet. That's a lot of prehistoric applesauce."

More Dependable Than Ever

Dodge Brothers, Inc., achieved third place in world production this Spring because they have been able—WITHOUT SACRIFICING FUNDAMENTALS—steadily to improve the smartness, comfort and smoothness of their product.

Owners and engineers know well that mechanically the car is sturdier than ever—cost of upkeep lower—and performance more dependable.

Refinements and lower prices have been made possible by spectacular increases in sales. Not by violating the basic tenet of Dodge Brothers success: NEVER TO LOWER QUALITY IN A SINGLE DETAIL.

METAL CEILING FOR THEATRE

The Gem Theatre in East Boston, from which 1,000 women and children fle din panic when plaster fell from the ceiling, will reopen as soon as a metal ceiling is installed, it was announced today by the management with the approval of Building Commissioner Rourke.

No structural defects were found in the building, according to the report of investigators of the Building Department, but the plaster ceiling was found in poor shape and installation of metal was ordered.

Commissioner Rourke denied he planned to inspect the ceiling of all motion picture theatres in the city. He said there are only four theatres beside the Gem with plaster ceilings and these will be inspected. All were formerly churches.

ALDEN H. KENYON
Head of National Advertising Agency speaker at Merchandising Conference at New England Shoe Show.

One of the features of the Annual New England Shoe Show being held at Mechanics Building this week is the merchandising conference to be held today and tomorrow. These conferences are to be the outstanding features of the show and from the program arranged by Chairman George Hendricks of the Douglas Shoe Company, who is in charge of this special attraction, a large attendance is expected.

Among the speakers at today's conferences are Arthur Freeman of New York, whose subject is Window Display Advertising; Homer Buckley of Chicago, who will speak on Direct Mail Advertising, and Alden H. Kenyon, president of the Kenyon Company, nations advertising agency, whose top is "The Value of Newspaper Advertising for the Retailer."

Tomorrow's program is equally interesting with several nationally known merchandising experts as the speakers. The opening day of this show saw several thousands shoe retailers and buyers from all over the United States registered. From all appearances this year's show will exceed all others in attendance and buying.

SHOES CARRY CIGARETTES

Importance of footwear to the stylishly dressed woman is stressed thoroughly at the shoe and leather exposition and style show sponsored by New England manufacturers at Mechanics Building today and tomorrow.

Hides of many animals are being used this season to provide shops for the fair sex. Sheila Greene, with her baby leopard ensemble of coat, hat, shoes and pocketbook, emphasizes this tendency in the latest fashions.

Russian boots, also, promise to have a popular vogue. Introduced just after Christmas, Miss Marion Taylor, of New York, shoe model and fashion expert, explains their sudden rise to popularity.

"At first only a few girls wore these boots, which contain side pockets for cigarettes and handkerchiefs. The innovation took at once. Women kept coming in asking about them, and now they are proving among the most popular of the new styles."

The cigarette-Russian boot to match is one of the novelties of the show, as is the "Valencia" knee boot, a shoe fitted to keep time with the new dance craze. Ruth Farrar and Marguerite Kennedy, Boston girls, danced their shoes away to this tune.

Other features of the show include the three-inch "spike" heel which will be shown on the runway; colored shoes, brilliantly jeweled evening slippers, diamond-heeled pumps and brocaded shoes.

The outstanding hit of the show and the newest shoe fad is the pocketbook, hat and shoe ensemble.

There are so many new ideas in footwear that anybody's idea is good. Heels on men's shoes will be raised one-half an inch, says the men's stylist. Men will appear taller, therefore.

The style revue committee consists of E. M. Bickard, Haverhill, chairman; W. H. Bresnahan, Boston, vice-chairman; F. H. Maxwell, Boston; Charles MacLaughlin, Maine; A. N. Blake, Lynn. Other committeemen are T. A. Delany, Boston; Chester I. Campbell, E. D. Haseltine, Newburyport; W. M. Oakman, Manchester, N. H.; Sydney Curry, Haverhill; Frank Lord, Maine; Lawrence Duffy, Lynn.

BOSTON POLICE CALLING FOR COOLER COLLARS

What the well-dressed policeman is wearing isn't half as important as what the well-dressed policeman would rather wear, it became apparent today, when a move was begun to change the Hub police uniform to the roll collar style.

The police complain that that stiff and formal attitude often remarked upon is due chiefly to the high, starched collars they must wear and the military collar on the coat. Besides, the high neck is hot in the Summer time.

A move to have the uniform changed, as the army uniform was changed recently, began today in the department among the stalwarts.

TARNISHED WINGS

by BEATRICE BURTON

Author of "GILDED KISSES" and "PIRATE OF HEARTS"

Story of a Boston Girl Who Liked Jazz Music and the Bright Lights

"Did you find the letter for you on the hall table?" Moms asked Merry.

READ THIS FIRST

MERRY LOCKE, twenty and pretty and gay, falls in love with ANTHONY GAINES, a wealthy young lawyer.

A few days after they meet, Tony begs her to run away and be married. But she refuses to. She explains to him that she has always been so fickle that she's afraid to trust her own feelings now. So Tony decides to wait for six months.

Merry fails at business school, to the great disappointment of her mother, who wanted her to be a secretary like CASSIE, her sister, who works for MORLEY KAUFMAN, a broker, with whom she's in love.

Merry's father dies suddenly, leaving nothing to his family. So Merry takes the first job that offers itself—assistant in MADAME DALE'S Boylston street beauty shop.

One night when Tony's mother returns from a long visit, he breaks an engagement with Merry. Cassie, who has heard how rich Tony is from Morley Kaufman, warns her that he really doesn't intend to marry her. If he did, she says, he would have brought his mother to call on her, and given her an engagement ring, too. Merry thinks it over, and decides that Cassie's right. Hurt and angry, she lets DERRICK JONES, who lives next door, make love to her that night, as he had many a time before.

The next time Merry sees Tony, he asks her to go to his own home to meet his mother, and gives her the ring that had been his mother's engagement ring. Ashamed of herself for not trusting him, Merry tells him about Derrick Jones, and he goes away without making any comment at all. But a week passes without a word from him. On Sunday, Cassie urges Merry to spend the evening with her and Morley Kaufman, and Bill Erskine, a friend of his. They go to an inn for dinner.

THE waiter had stepped behind them when Bill Erskine took another of his fat cigars from its silver paper wrapper and struck a match to it. The heavy smell of it began to fill the car.

Merry leaned forward to let down a window.

The rain had stopped. The beauty of the night stirred in Merry's heart almost like pain.

For an instant she forgot where she was. For an instant she was with Tony Gaines once more in his blue roadster with his arm around her and his hand gripping hers on the rim of the steering wheel as they sped along under the stars.

"Tony, Tony," she whispered softly. Then the thick voice of the man beside her jerked her back to reality.

"Nasty night to drive," he remarked to Morley Kaufman. "Better take it easy or you'll skid, sure." With that he popped his cigar back into his mouth and puffed on it furiously.

"Don't you worry about me, Bill," Morley tossed back over his shoulder. His was bent low over the

From BOSTON to BROADWAY

By GEORGE M. COHAN

CHAPTER XXV.

IN OCTOBER, 1913, with all the shows going and the season off to a good start, I again took to the road as a "trouper," making a tour of the principal cities in "Broadway Jones." This trip came to an end in Detroit, Mich., January 31, 1914, my Dad's sixty-sixth birthday.

I made him a partner in all my theatrical enterprises at Detroit, as our permanent retirement from the stage. Mother and Dad made good their threat.

I hustled back to New York from Detroit and began waiting for an invitation of submitted play heads.

With Carlyle Moore, I worked on a farce called "Stop Thief." It was after several "tryouts" of several versions, we finally brought into the Gaiety Theatre. It turned out to be a very popular farce success. A

'DROWNED,' CALLS FOR CLOTHES

As Police Prepare to Drag Pond Boy of 14 Says: "They Are Mine!"

Metropolitan police were just getting ready to drag Wright's Pond for the body of a boy whose clothes were found on the banks, when Milan DeTour, 14, of No. 30 Baker road, Everett, marched into the Middlesex Fells station, said, "They're mine," and solved the mystery.

It seems that "Miley" went swimming with a couple of friends. There weren't any lockers at the pond, so they parked their clothes under a handy tree. The most important part of it was that they were "Miley's" best.

After awhile the swimming was over. The sun had faded and gone. So had "Miley's" Sunday go-to-meeting suit. By means of contributions of the gang, however, he got home without being arrested.

But the lad's mother wasn't pleased at all. "You're a fine sight. Look at those pants! Why aren't you more careful?" and a few more of those material admonitions greeted him.

It's the other end, police were notified, that a bundle of boys' clothes had been found late at night. No owner. Boy drowned.

Miles mother read in the papers that a search was being made for the boy's body. Two and two—

So "Miley" marched down to the police station, calmed his garments relieved everybody's mind, and [illegible] a sigh of relief. So did Mrs. DeTour.

Kearns Bares 'Inside' Life of Jack Dempsey

Jack Kearns

The Truth on Jack Dempsey!

Jack Kearns, deposed manager of the world's heavyweight champion, pulls back the curtain and permits the readers of the Boston Evening American to gaze upon the "inside" story of the life of the world's heavyweight champion.

It is the greatest newspaper feature of the year and answers the questions as to whether Dempsey was ever yellow, was he ever nervous before a fight, was he sullen or smiling.

It tells of the political obstacles connected with a championship battle, of Dempsey's purses, the training periods and ringside suspense. Kearns depicts Tex Rickard driving a million dollar bargain and tells of the "methods" of the New York Boxing Commission.

Dempsey's ambition to become a moving picture sheik is bared while Kearns also tells the close-up story of the champion's first trip to Europe where he rubbed elbows with kings and queens.

CROWD SWARMS SCIOTO COUNTRY CLUB FOR OPEN

CLASSIEST FIELD IN HISTORY

Jones Is Favorite, With Walter Hagen a Staunch Second Choice

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
I. N. S. Sports Editor.

Columbus, O., July 7.—The back breaking, nerve racking layout at the Scioto Country Club scene of the national open golf champ ten 24 hours hence will be fairly gutted with class today, as Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen and Willie MacFarlane, the big three of golfdom, will retouch the edges of their preparation for the big event.

They will take part in the thirty-two event, which is open to the championship and seven of the leading stars in the field of 143 that will leave the tee in the championship proper tomorrow.

The big four will team up in the feature foursome with Bobby Jones pairing with Willie Ogg Jones, friend of Hagen, against Hagen and MacFarlane. The crowd will swarm at the one of them, but it will be

For one thing, Hagen now has a great chance to get revenge on Jones for the latter's victory over the field at open at Inwood in 1920. MacFarlane the pair who beat Jones a stroke-play off for the American open this last year.

The Jones-Hagen match is the main attraction in the week's dash toward the finish. Hagen had won seven straight when a Bobby Jones 144 to 145 victory in the semi-finals of the Southern Open at Pinehurst, N. C., last April ended the string. Jones has been in the limelight ever since, as a result of his sparkling performance in the British amateur championship.

However, the experts in the field do not consider Jones to be a man who has become a great deal of when the tournament is over. Even though a general favorite he was quoted at no better than 3 to 1 with Hagen a staunch second choice at 10 to 3.

In fact the premises fairly teemed with an odds-on of the field, including Gene Sarazen, Macdonald Smith, Leo Diegel, Tommy Armour, Joe Kirkwood, Al Watrous, Johnny Farrell, Ed Dudley, Abe Mitchell, Jock Hutchison, Bobby Cruickshank, Mike and Tom Kerrigan to join the British open champion Jim Barnes, Leo Fraser and Freddie McLeod out of the party at the 18 at a record look.

There were only a casual few among the big timers, at that. As a matter of fact, with all the champions present and present to sign for the tournament, it looked like the greatest open championship since Francis Ouimet first took a hand in golf out of the primary grade, defeating Ted Ray and Harry Vardon for that record to be forgotten by a Broadline.

CALLAHAN SHOWS WAY TO YOUNGER JOCKEYS

New York, July 7 (A P.) Johnny Callahan, 44 years old and still showing the way to many a younger shaddler of horses.

On Monday he captured the last two races at Aqueduct and seeing he has added the first leg for the day including the Matron stanza. The second event was a steeplechase, a sport which seems little old Johnny not at all.

Of course there was a tribute to such a performance. Many times Callahan has been the center of such outbursts but never before has he the same joy in his face that showed a couple of decades ago.

Today Callahan was scheduled to ride in the feature of the Empire City opening astride Cloudland.

BOB SAGE OPPOSES SLATTERY IN GOTHAM

New York, July 7—Bob Sage of Detroit, who boxes Jimmy Slattery ten rounds tonight at Madison Square Garden, has much stress on the fact that in the last three years of his contact with Jack Dempsey, outpointed the Lost heavyweight contender on the basis he won another chance at the Bridgeport boxer. Sage assumes that he is in prime condition, barring accidents, every night when of course a seasoning quite a bit.

Slattery, recently returned from a two months' trip abroad. The Buffalo lad scored the K.O. at the start and having come down to earth seen a good chance to start all over again.

SHORTY LONG PLAYS ALMOST 800 GAMES

When Shorty Long of Pittsfield, is called to his home in Washington it broke a wonderful record of consecutive games played in by the infielder. He went the straight seasons playing in every game and had participated in 46 with Pittsfield when he was called away. That represented almost 800 games. Long was with Waterbury before going to the Hillies.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

August 22nd.

AN INNUMERABLE number of people have seen Gordon, and apparently almost any dapper youth of twenty or so with what Laird calls patent leather hair and an inveterate cigarette habit, is likely at any time to be tapped on the shoulder and taken to a police station.

Both the library and that portion of the hall near the telephone have furnished finger prints. But as Greenough says,

"Finger prints do not discover criminals; they identify them."

Nevertheless, great pains have been taken to preserve them. On the white marble mantel a very distinct imprint in blood was photographed without difficulty; others, less clear, were dusted with black powder before the camera was used. Detailed pictures were made of the library and hall, before any attempt to put them in the records was made, and these remain in the files, carefully [illegible] with a strange [illegible].

Greenough handing it to me today said:

"The print is defective. You can keep it if you care to."

One thing which puzzles the police in the case of the baffling and [illegible] that Bethel could have put up so little fight for life when he [illegible]. At the autopsy [illegible] has two problems to solve, and [illegible] searching of the house and [illegible] publicity have not yet answered.

One is the disappearance of the manuscript on which Bethel had worked all afternoon.

But perhaps the most surprising [illegible] the failure of Gordon Bethel to [illegible] self in the case.

Holiday [illegible] up [illegible] situation yesterday, in one of [illegible] rare moments he has given us [illegible] the matter.

"Had Gordon tried to [illegible] he said, "that is strange, [illegible] one belonging to Mr. Bethel has turned up?"

I dare say a [illegible] of [illegible] most of his contemporaries and most of [illegible].

He wasn't as old as all that!" And he added, apparently irrelevantly a moment later: "The two evenings you saw him and talked to him, how did he impress you? I mean, his state of mind?"

I, at last time, of course, he was frantically frightened. He said as [illegible]."

"And before that?"

"He didn't say so, but he was more or less on guard. He had his revolver, of course, those were rather perilous times."

As a matter of fact, the case is anything but clear. [illegible] Gordon, as it [illegible] Greenough [illegible] Nelson, all among, as convinced of Gordon's guilt as he had been convinced of mine. But Benchley is more open to conviction, and a conversation between Halliday and him this morning on the lawn near the terrace, is well worth [illegible] my mind.

Halliday had been protesting against Greenough's method of "allowing a single idea until it went up a blind alley and died there."

"Of course," he said quietly, "you can make a case against [illegible]. It's all here. But you'll have to [illegible] get over that you won't know what to do with. We know that [illegible] was Mr. Bethel who hit Gordon and knocked him out some time ago, but who tied him? Where's the boy's own story about seeing a man at the gun room window? Mr. Porter here later on finds that same window open, and sees a [illegible] the lower hall. Who was it? The same hand tied the boy and [illegible] Carraway, and Gordon himself, even this past [illegible]. What are you going to do with that?"

"Then where's Gordon now?" Benchley asked, practically enough.

"I don't know. Dead, maybe."

"I think I get the idea," he said. "The fight, you think, was between Mr. Bethel and this unknown of yours, the noise awoke [illegible] and aroused up in it, or else he'd be suspected and beat it. Is that it?"

"Well, I would say that a man [illegible] never occurred to me until [illegible] moment.

As a result of this conversation, Benchley has advanced a theory of his own which [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

A WELL known politician wants to make it against the law for a woman to go through her husband's trousers at night. This is absurd, a bride always gets the pickpocket privilege with her marriage license.

SHE swears to love, honor and obey but she doesn't promise to keep out of his way.

MARRIAGE is a game of give and take. What he doesn't give she takes.

THE husband may wear the pants but the wife reserves the right to go through them.

THERE are very few men who have to send their trousers out to have them cleaned.

THIS is the reason so many men buy suits with two pairs of pants. They use one pair for a decoy.

ONE man always comes home in the evening in his pajamas. He leaves his trousers at the bank.

HE is afraid to put them over the chair because his wife has search rights.

HE hung them up for over a year and his pockets never balanced in the morning.

AND a husband doesn't like to hire an accountant to audit his trousers.

IT'S nothing to say that a man can go to sleep rich and wake up broke.

HE finally had to take his wife's advice and trade them in for a pair of hammocks.

HE slept so soundly that he had to put bombs in her bedroom slippers.

EVERY time he heard an explosion he knew his money was in danger.

THE bombs were so powerful that the minute they went off they blew her back into bed.

THERE'S only one way for a married man to keep from losing his money at night. Spend it in the daytime.

DAILY SHORT STORY

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER

By Jack Woodford

WALKING to the water cooler Bubbles Thayer wondered damsels whether or not she would faint before she got to it. In order to answer to a figure that would suggest Cleopatra, she had been accustomed to eating one prune, and a piece of dry toast for breakfast, but this morning, because she had felt anything but svelte the day before, she had eschewed even that.

Mr. Horton, sitting at his desk looked up from his work and acted on that impulse when he saw Bubbles sway dazzily.

"I'll see that you reach home safely," he said, looking down at the tousled head supine upon his shoulder. His first mental reaction was that he wished he had a daughter to cuddle in the crook of his arm the way he now cuddled Bubbles—his second reaction was well . . . different.

"I'm perfectly all right now Mr. Horton," she insisted. "It's really nothing, and I've a dozen letters to be typed."

"Nonsense," snapped Horton. Glancing out through the plate glass window which bore the legend "Horton & McGuire, Real Estate," he saw a taxi parked at the curb. Getting his stenographer's hat down off of a book he helped her out to the cab and they journeyed northward to the famous, or infamous Wilson Avenue District where, at length, the driver stopped before a new building labeled "Ladies Hotel."

Bubbles opened the door of a third floor room and led the way into a comfy furnished little one-room and kitchenette apartment.

"I want to thank you," she said turning to him, once they were in side, "but I really feel quite guilty in taking this time off when there is so much work to be done. You've been very kind."

Something about the room intrigued Horton damnably. There were little characteristic touches that bespoke Bubbles so graphically, such as the interesting looking books which filled the top of a smsel desk, and the chummy pillows nestling along a large davenport which filled one corner of the room Horton was intensely loath to go, and not a little frightened that he should feel that way.

"Miss Thayer, Bubbles," he stammered, "I want to be kind to you all the time. You don't know how much your presence in the office during these last six months has meant to me. You're delightful, refreshing, always interesting and different." Moving toward her, irresistably propelled, he tried to take the girl into his arms, longing again to feel the thrilling weight of her fluffy head upon his shoulder.

Bubbles pushed him away sadly. "It's all my fault," she said. "I should have known better than to let you come up here. Still, I hoped that you were the type of man who would not misunderstand. But you're just like the rest; men are only made from one mold I guess. You've got a perfectly wonderful looking wife. Every time she's come to the office I've admired and envied her—and, take it from me, I'm going to do absolutely nothing to make her unhappy. Thanks dreadfully for bringing me home, but now, please go—there's nothing to be said."

The following morning Bubbles decided not to go back to the Horton office. Instead she would hunt for another position; still, on second thought, she decided not to hunt for a job that day either; she'd treat herself to a walk along the driver. It was warm and sunny, and a delightfully languorous breeze was blowing in from off the lake.

What really she was going to try to do was walk off the heaviness in her heart. For, if Horton ever could have guessed how she felt toward him, he would never have left the day before so readily. For months she had literally worshipped him in the secret places of her heart, and for months she had forced herself not to display any outward danger signals of the growing infatuation.

Reaching a street end that led to the lake, she decided to go down and sit upon the bench and watch the waves.

When she got near to the bank she stopped, hesitantly; a pair of lovers already occupied the sector, wrapped in each other's arms, looking dreamily out at the lake. Wishing to withdraw stealthily in order not to disturb them, she walked carefully backward, but her foot stepped upon a fallen rotten tree limb and it cracked. The couple turned, and though Bubbles was well shaded from their eyes behind a clump of bushes, she got a very clear glimpse of the woman's face. It was Mrs. Horton.

"Little late," apologized Bubbles, an hour later, reporting at the office for work, "but better late than never I suppose."

Horton was enthusiastic; he had not expected ever to see her again—but here she was, and with an impish light in her eyes that portended happy days to come.

FOXY GRANDPA AND HIS INTERESTING DAILY BEDTIME STORY

By Foxy Grandpa

WE were at the circus, and when Bobby saw the lion tamer step into a cage with half a dozen lions, he put his little hand in mine, and gripped it tightly. I can never help feeling nervous myself when I see a performance of that kind.

When the show was over Bobby whispered as we went out with the crowd:

"How do these men ever train lions, Foxy Grandpa?"

"They get them when they are young," I explained, "and they say that lions are very easy to train when they are cubs. But it requires the greatest patience in the world."

"I should think it would be most awfully dangerous," said Bobby.

"It is," I agreed, "and I saw a terrible thing happen in Paris once."

"With lions?" asked Bobby quickly.

"Yes," I replied. "And I'll tell you about it as soon as we get into the car."

We pushed through the crowd and when we were finally seated comfortably in the subway Bobby looked up into my face and asked:

"Foxy Grandpa, will you please tell me about those lions in Paris?"

"Oh, yes," I said.

"There was a show in Paris where a man was obliged to perform with nineteen lions."

"Nineteen!" gasped Bobby.

"Yes, nineteen," I repeated. "Now, six of those lions the man had trained himself, but the other thirteen had been trained by another trainer, so the lions did not know this man about whom I am telling you.

"The cage was hauled on the stage and the orchestra played loudly, while the trainer came out in his scarlet coat and high patent leather boots. Raising his whip with his right hand, he smiled and made a bow to the audience.

"Then he turned, unfastened the bolt of the door to the cage, and bravely stepped into the cage, where the lions slunk back, snarling and showing their great white teeth.

"The trainer got safely into the cage and fastened the door securely behind him. Then the terrible thing happened.

"As he stepped forward the trainer slipped and fell. Like a flash one of the strange lions jumped at him. Immediately the other strange lions rushed at him and began biting him savagely. Everyone in the audience felt sure that the poor man would be killed.

"But then something very wonderful happened. The largest lion in the cage flew at the lions which were biting the man and started to attack them with all his strength.

"This was the trainer's favorite lion. The man had raised him from a baby and had been good and kind to him. That's why he was fighting for his master's life.

"How bravely that lion did fight. How cruelly the other wild beasts bit him. But he never gave up. He kept off the other lions until the men of the theatre opened the door and dragged the poor trainer out."

"Was he killed, Foxy Grandpa?" asked Bobby, leaning forward.

"No," I went on. "It was a miracle he was not killed. But he was very badly hurt, because the bite of the first lion had broken his leg."

"Oh!" sighed Bobby.

"But he got well," I said, "although he was in the hospital for nine months. Finally, he was able to walk and grew strong. Then he went on earning his living, performing with the lion who had saved his life."

"Would you ever believe that a lion could be so kind?" exclaimed Bobby, as the conductor called out our station.

Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis

TO know the grasp of circumstance, to feel its cruel force when all the shining streams of life seem stifled at their source, when all hope's cherished phantasies like sinking sunsets wane, ah, this the limit of despair, the height and depth of pain! But then to sense that deep within the power to battle lies, to feel a steadfast strength that fears no threat of sombre skies, ah, this is recompense enough, whatever loss befall, this splendid power to endure, life's greatest gift of all. Sometimes it sleeps within the soul's calm, till some hoted thing, unvalued till then comes a day when aiming hopes and plans go astray, and then it wakes to meet the need, it answers to the call; this strength to face the direst foes, life's greatest gift of all!

Thrift Comes With Home Ownership

When you buy a home you assume the responsibility of meeting the regular mortgage payments, thereby acquiring the SAVING HABIT.

The thrifty, practical man who owns his home is usually a better citizen than the rent payer. He has not only strengthened his character by systematic saving—but has built up an investment that guarantees him peace of mind and independence as the years go on.

The home-owner, being a taxpayer and a permanent resident of his community, is more vitally interested in civic affairs than the rent payer. Almost invariably he can be found lined up on the side of community betterment and good local government.

You will find many splendid home-buying opportunities in the Real Estate columns daily.

UNITED FRUIT HEAD OFF TO CALIFORNIA

President Victor M. Cutter, head of the great United Fruit Company, is "California bound." He plans to visit the sunny State and spend a month there and in the Northwest and Vancouver, to make an intensive study of selling conditions as affecting the Boston company.

Victor M. Cutter

Aden J. Keefe, Boston, Stock Exchange member, is one of the numerous local brokers who came to the "Street" from Harvard. His rise has been meteoric. The first issue he sold was put out in a successful Boston theatre and his move to his present quarters in the Chamber of Commerce Building on Federal street was a part of the "upward" movement of the financial district away from its historic environment of State Street. The district, by the way, now goes even as far as Park Square.

Aden J. Keefe

Collector of the Port Wilfred W. Lufkin has previously pointed out through this column the fact that Boston is the second port in importance in America, but it is always pleasing to Boston residents to be told that the position is being maintained. For the fiscal year ended July 30, imports received in Massachusetts customs district, principally through the port of Boston, had total value of $227,234,374, and duties collected amounted to $44,934,258, according to Collector Lufkin. These totals represent gains over the previous fiscal year of $26,424,274 in imports and $10,766,614 in duties collected. Collector Lufkin states, this shows no gives Boston place among the ports of the country for imports, being topped only by New York.

W. W. Lufkin

Henry J. Fuller of Aldred & Co., New York, has been elected a director of the First National Bank of Boston to fill a vacancy.

A. Orum Fulton, president of Wheelock, Lovejoy & Co., Inc., has been added to the board of the Central Trust Co. of Cambridge.

Finally Get the Big Idea

Politicians at Last See Significance of Anti-World Court Results

If you want BIG news, take these two items:

1—The Republican State Convention in Nevada has passed a resolution condemning the action of the Senate in voting the United States into the World Court of the League of Nations.

2—George W. Olvany, chief of Tammany Hall, has told Seattle reporters that Governor Al Smith of New York will run for President on two issues—the modification of the Volstead Act and taking the United States OUT of the World Court.

That is not only big news but GOOD news. It means that we are in our way out of the World Court. The politicians at last have caught on. They have analyzed what was in the brick that hit World Court Senators McKinley, Pepper, Stanfield and Cummins, defeated in the Republican primaries. They have analyzed what was in the bouquet of public approval handed to anti-Court Senators Brookhart, Watson, Robinson and Nye, all triumphantly renominated.

A good many other politician-Senators, seeking judgment at the hands of the people, are wishing that they HAD analyzed the gold brick handed them by the League propagandists who seduced them into voting us into the World Court by a flood of ballyhoo petitions, memorials, telegrams and what-not, emanating from alleged church societies, women's clubs, organized busybodies and noise-makers of all kinds.

It turns out that the clamor for our entrance into the World Court was supported by practically everyone but the American voter.

The Hearst papers have continually warned the politicians, both Democratic and Republican, that the people of the United States did not want to depart from the policies that have made the United States powerful and prosperous. If the politicians did not want to recognize the fact and heed the warning, the fault is their own.

The anti-Court platform of the Nevada Republican Convention is sad tidings for Senator Tasker L. Oddie of Nevada, up for renomination in the Republican primary today. Oddie made the mistake of voting for the World Court.

He is opposed by Mayor E. G. Roberts of Reno. Mayor Roberts' platform is: "The United States in entering the World Court reserved the right to withdraw at any time; let's get OUT."

Mayor Roberts' platform will be a hard one to beat. Senator Oddie is an able man. He was a tower of strength in many good causes, such as national highways. Like Senator Cummins of Iowa, he will be missed in the Senate.

But there is one thing which the people think even more important than being a good Senator—and that is being a good American and keeping this country out of Europe's quarrels. When a Senator forgets THAT, down in Washington, it is time to bring him home.

A great American movement is on, the most significant political event since the war. Republican Nevada calls to Democratic New York, and Democratic New York calls back, that at last the politicians have got the big idea.

A Piece of "Economy"

The People Will Not Approve

1—Secretary Mellon announces that the Government closed the fiscal year, ending June 30, with a surplus of $377,767,816 in the Treasury,

That's GOOD.

2—Congress adjourned without making decent provision for 1,800 disabled emergency Army officers.

That's BAD.

No nation can afford to neglect its disabled defenders. A nation with over three hundred and seventy-seven million dollars in the bank can afford NOT to neglect them. The cost of just treatment for these men would be $1,190,052 a year.

The emergency Army officers performed the same duties in the war as the regular officers and got the same pay. But disabled regular officers were allowed to retire on 75 per cent. of their wartime pay. Disabled emergency officers were denied this; they are given only an insignificant pension. The Tyson-Fitzgerald bill puts the emergency officers on the same basis as the regulars.

That act of justice has already been done for emergency officers in the Navy and the Marines. There is no argument offered against the Tyson-Fitzgerald bill excepting economy. On that plea the Senate steering committee and the House rules committee have prevented the measure from coming to a vote in Congress, though it is admitted that the bill would be passed overwhelmingly.

The House Rules Committee voted to shelve the Tyson-Fitzgerald bill until Congress meets next Winter. The Senate steering committee held it up so long that when it finally came before the Senate, the calendar was so jammed that a single Senator, by objecting to considering it, prevented a vote on the bill.

We don't believe that this economy is in accord with the Coolidge program. We don't believe it is in accord with the sentiment of the country.

When Congress convenes in December, passage of the Tyson-Fitzgerald bill should be one of its first acts, and the pay increase to the disabled officers should be made RETROACTIVE, beginning July 1, 1926.

Sacrificing to Science

That Need Not Worry Us

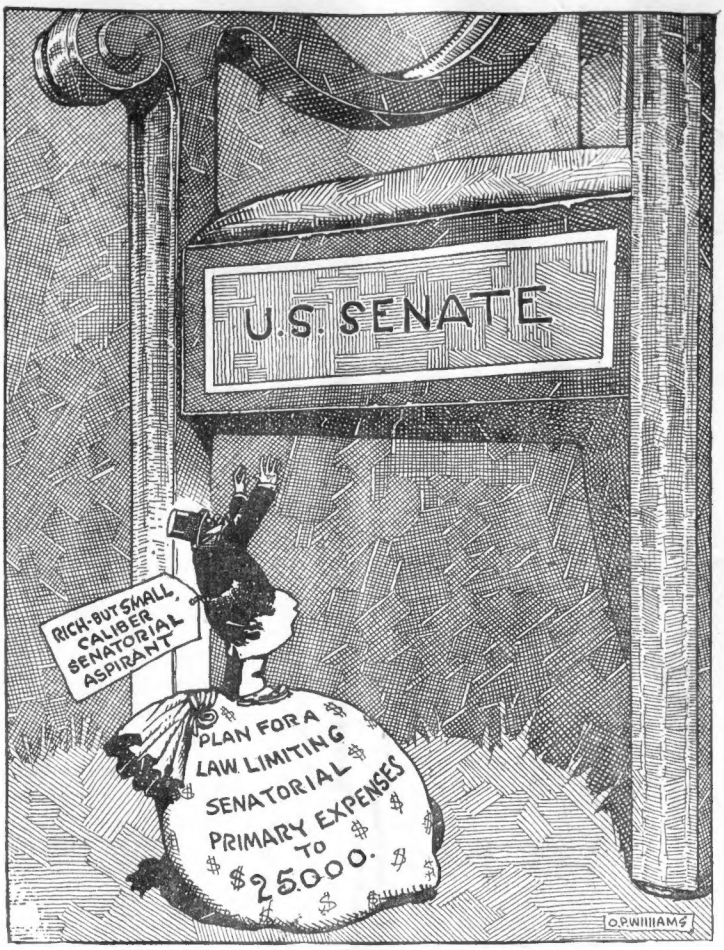
When flying explorers are supposed to be lost in the Arctic regions, other fliers are eager to look for them.

The thoughtless think it a shame to lose valuable lives in scientific conquest of the Arctic regions.

They forget how gaily the world sacrificed twenty millions of lives, including eight or ten millions dead of Spanish influenza, all because a Serbian shot an Austrian prince and gave the armed nations the chance that they were waiting for.

If men would stop deliberate international murder, they need not worry about the lives sacrificed to science.

Some Couldn't Make the Grade



U.S. SENATE
RICH-BUT SMALL CALIBER SENATORIAL ASPIRANT
PLAN FOR A LAW LIMITING SENATORIAL PRIMARY EXPENSES TO $25,000.
O.P. WILLIAMS

REASONABLE limitation on primary expenses or the assumption of all cost by the public—which in any event pays in the end—is clearly indicated as necessary.

Senator La Follette proposes $25,000, which would be too much in a small State and not enough in a large. The amount, however, is less important than the principle.

When the people get really determined to put a check on political profligacy, they will persist until they find the way.

Learn From an Indian Skull and Crossbones---

That When You GET a Piece of Good Real Estate You Ought to KEEP It

SKULL AND BONES OF AN INDIAN THAT LIVED ON MANHATTAN ISLAND 300 YEARS AGO.

Workmen excavating at Dyckman street in New York dug up interesting bones of which you see a sample.

Once inside this skull there dwelt the brain of an Indian, concentrated on catching deer, escaping bears and wolves, and especially on stripping scalps from the heads of his enemies.

He and his fellow Indians lived in a village at Dyckman street and belonged to the Manhattan Indians, fortunately situated for protection with the wide Hudson and East rivers around them.

You could philosophize indefinitely about this skull and these bones. You might quote Hamlet if you happened to have no thoughts of your own, or you might, most appropriately, quote the Bible, better than anybody's thought.

But philosophy doesn't interest this age unless it leads to something REAL. Therefore we seize upon the opportunity to tell you to BUY GOOD REAL ESTATE.

This Indian lived on land, but didn't OWN IT. He was a sort of a cross between a reckless savage and a modern single taxer. He thought that anybody ought to have the land. So, nobody in particular had it.

If this gentleman might have taken up acreage somewhere in the direction of the Battery, including perhaps, a few acres of Wall Street, his descendants could now be living at Palm Beach in Winter, and Deauville or Newport in Summer, spending money that they never earned, enjoying themselves.

Think what a wonderful opportunity this Indian missed, for his descendants. And think how "socialistic" it is to talk about the single tax, which would keep people owning real estate from living without work on the work of others.

Moral: In some good city, or some suburb that is soon to be a city, get yourself a good piece of land and HOLD ON TO IT.

Whether it be Boston, Chicago, San Diego, Seattle or Jersey City, the one and only thing necessary is to GET THE LAND AND KEEP IT.

Take care of a good piece of land and it will take care of you.

ONLY BEGINNING IN AIR PROGRESS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

WE are living in formative times. Great projects are yet in their infancy.

A map of the air transport lines of the United States lies before the writer. It shows that much has been accomplished in the way of permanent and dependable air transportation; but we are only beginning. Already the Postoffice Department operates a through day and night trans-continental air mail service from New York to San Francisco, some 2,757 miles, in an elapsed time of thirty-two hours. The planes leave the coast in the morning and arrive at the opposite coast the following evening.

Besides the regular postal planes the government has contracted for other mail routes which have a combined length of 4,881 miles. These mail routes connect when possible not only with each other, but with the railroad mail trains.

Already the postal air lines directly serve fifty cities and a population of twenty-five millions.

The problem of progress is one of transportation. The airplane is rapidly weaving the country into a more solid unit. We have lines from Boston to New York, from Miami to Los Angeles, from St. Louis to Chicago, and from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City. Other lines will rapidly spring up.

Time was not very long ago when railroad communication was fragmentary. The New York Central Railroad system is but little older than Chauncey Depew. A Depew now alive and beginning his career will see radical progress in airplane service!

Besides this we have the improvement of the radio and it is not absurd to suppose that those now living will use telephoto machines to see a distant face while talking to it, and that telephoning by air without wires will be in common use.

All this makes for the unification and solidarity of the nation. Whatever weaves us more closely together strengthens and solidifies the country.

"YOU SAID IT, MARCELINE!"

By Marceline D'Alroy

ALL WOMEN who give
Their love to A MAN
Expect DEVOTION
In RETURN,
PREFERABLY LIFELONG.
Yet WOMEN who have ENOUGH SENSE to see
That DEVOTION is a
NECESSARY ADJUNCT to
Love, SELDOM have Enough BRAINS to PICK A MAN WHO
Is CAPABLE of giving
IT TO THEM.
WOMEN who know what
They want do NOT always
Know how to GET IT.
A HIGH STRUNG, emotional
Woman often KNOWS that
The DEVOTED TYPE OF Man will not EMOTE.
To her satisfaction, BUT
She SELDOM realizes
That the EMOTIONAL MAN
Will probably not DEVOTE
Himself to Her
EXCLUSIVELY.
And, very often, THIS IS
THE TRAGEDY IN SOME WOMEN'S LIVES.

LISTEN WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"WHY can't they leave me alone?" snorts Claire to her Girl Friend.

"They're always meddling in my affairs. I can't do the least little thing without having the whole family advise and warn me. Honest, Gert, they act as if I was six, instead of twenty-six. Sometimes I get so furious I vow I'll leave home and take a room somewhere. But I'd really hate to do that, for, of course, I'm awfully fond of Mother and Dad and Rose 'n' Joe. But, heavens, aren't families terrible! Particularly if you're the youngest."

Claire doesn't tell all the story. She doesn't tell how the Youngest has been coddled and served since she was a baby, as well as bossed and advised. She doesn't tell how, even yet, her mother and sister do her mending, tidy up her room, perform all her small chores and tiresome duties. She doesn't tell how her elder brother sees that she has all the little luxuries her salary will not cover. She does not tell how they all smooth the way for her so constantly, always "taking her side," always protecting her sensitiveness against hurt.

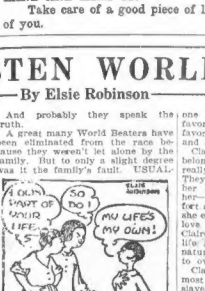
She doesn't tell these things because she doesn't think of them. She has always taken such service for granted; she does not dream that other lives are not so served. She honestly feels that the family are indebted to her instead of she to them, because she "stands for all their business."

"I'm just giving up my life to satisfy their whims, Gert," she wails. "I'll never amount to anything, because they'll never let me. Once I had as much ambition and initiative as any other girl, but they've simply crushed it in me. If I ever suggested doing anything the least bit out of the ordinary it precipitated a family conference. Everybody had to have their fingers in the pie. I got so sick of it finally that I just quit trying to do anything. Wouldn't it get your goat, Gert?"

Gert opines that it would get her goat. All the other Girl Friends agree with her. They, too, have blasted lives due to the family's interference. They, too, could have been world beaters if the family had only left them alone.

And probably they speak the truth.

A great many World Beaters have been eliminated from the race because they weren't let alone by the family. But to only a slight degree was it the family's fault. USUALLY THE WORLD BEATER HERSELF WAS TO BLAME.



She was to blame because she accepted too many favors. All this service, which Claire forgets in her resentment, all the coddling and comforting, all the mending of stockings and tidying of room and running of errands, EACH ONE OF THESE FAVORS WAS A DEBT INCURRED. Each favor accepted put Claire under obligation to the one rendering the service. Each favor gave the one granting that favor the right to dictate, advise and interfere.

Claire's family treat her as if she belonged to them, because she has really let herself belong to them. They've all had a hand in making her life. They still make life for her—they still make ease and comfort and rest and convenience which she enjoys. They put their time and love and thought, and anxiety into Claire's life and she accepts it. Her life is really mortgaged to them, naturally they feel they have a right to oversee their own property.

Claire's "slavery" is the story of most human slavery. We become slaves because we like many of the conditions which slaves enjoy. We do not see that by accepting those conditions we put our liberty in hock. Love is the most ruthless creditor in the world when once you have accepted his services.

Then does this mean that we should all stand alone?

No—it is not possible for any of us to stand really alone. We must all depend to a certain extent on other people. But we need not give them a mortgage on our growth while we do so. By standing on our own hind legs—by facing disagreeable responsibilities, and doing our own irritating or disheartening chores, we retain the right to boss our own lives, and mold our own destinies. Otherwise, we let the other chap in on the deal.

WHEN ONE PERSON DOES ALL THE TALKING

Have you the disagreeable habit of interrupting the person who is telling a story in order to give your version of it?

This often happens between husbands and wives.

When friends drop in do you try to monopolize the conversation and give little chance to others to do any talking?

When they do manage to break in do you constantly interrupt and give the idea that they are not giving a true version?

Perhaps you think you are more capable of carrying on an interesting conversation than any member of your household.

But that does not indicate that visitors prefer hearing from you to the exclusion of the others. Copyright, International Features Service.
